Dad joined the US Army during WWII and afterwards was in the reserve. He worked hard and retired with the rank of Lt. Col. I have a wedding photo of him in his uniform and other information. He was stationed in the Philippines and early one morning found himself and his men aboard a ship. He later found out in an officer's meeting that they were headed to invade Japan. Shortly thereafter, the ship turned around and headed back---the atomic bomb had been dropped.

My dad also served during the occupation helping to set up schools for the Japanese children.
